Trumpists say

The country wants the President to be "one of us" who bears the same responsibilities of citizenship that all share.
But I believe that the President should be excused from some of the burdens of ordinary citizenship while serving in office. … the indictment and trial of a sitting President, moreover, would cripple the federal government, rendering it unable to function with credibility in either the international or domestic arenas.

Brett Kavanauhg,
arguing presidents should be above the law

© 2018 Kwiple.com