

1%ers say

I feel like,
no matter what you have,
somebody has about a hundred times that.

A New York City woman with an apartment overlooking the Hudson, a second home in the Hamptons, a household income of at least two million dollars a year and who considers herself to be middle class, quoted by Rachel Sherman in her book, *Uneasy Street: The Anxieties of Affluence