

1%ers say

Island-hopping for those without their own chartered yacht was, until recently a laborious exercise often involving flying back to Manila each and every time, but the seaplanes have no need of landing strips or airports, which means they can go wherever your fancy takes them.

Lucia van der Post,
How To Spend It, April 4, 2015, on how easy it has become to get to private island resorts in the Philippines for spells of being coddled and pampered