

2020 Presidential election

How did President Trump continue to make false allegations despite all this unequivocal information? Trump sought out those who were not scrupulous with the facts, and were willing to be dishonest.

He found a new legal team to assert claims that his existing advisors and the Justice Department had specifically informed him were false.

President Trump's new legal team, headed by Rudolph Giuliani, and their allies ultimately lost dozens of lawsuits in Federal and state courts. ... Indeed, eleven of the judges who ruled against Donald Trump and his supporters were appointed by Donald Trump himself. ... Not a single witness — nor any combination of witnesses — provided the Committee with evidence demonstrating that fraud occurred on a scale even remotely close to changing the outcome in any state.
