

Authoritarianism

A new species of top-down rule marked by recombinant qualities, these despotisms are systems of state-regulated capitalism in which wide gaps between rich and poor are bridged by top-to-bottom patron-client connections, middle class loyalty, staged elections, and a great deal of officially sanctioned talk of the people as the veritable source of political order.

John Keane, The New Despotism