

Bad news

It's too late for any of us [journalists] to fix this colossal misread and lapse in professional caution.

Now all we can do is wait to see how much this failure of vision will cost the public we supposedly serve.

Just like the politicians, our job was to listen, and we talked instead. Now America will do its own talking for a while. The world may never forgive us for not seeing this coming.

Matt Taibbi,
on the press's failure
to understand the "rage storm"
behind the 2016 presidential election