

Bad news

We may soon be reaching a point in American journalism where foreign news is reserved in local newspapers for half a column on an inside page, a minute or two of television time on the local news, or a few lonely websites reserved for foreign policy specialists, nothing more.

Marvin Kalb