

Blacks

The American commonwealth chooses to overlook what Negroes are never able to forget: they are not really considered a part of it. Like Aziz in A Passage to India or Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin, they know that white people, whatever their love of justice, do not love them.

James Baldwin,
"Journey to Atlanta"