

By the numbers

In the ten most dynamic states nearly 13 percent of the population was born abroad, compared with 6.7 per cent in the least dynamic quintile. West Virginia, which is the least dynamic, ranks last for immigration with 1.4 per cent of its population born abroad.

Financial Times, May 24, 2017
[economic dynamism measures change in the number of companies, share of jobs in recently launched companies, labor force participation rate, etc.]