

By the numbers

Research ... shows that in the 2012 elections the residents of 75% minority zip codes waited more than twice as long to vote as the residents of 75% white zip codes.

There was almost no difference in waiting time by average income level.

The zip codes with the longest lines were minority zip codes, not poor zip codes.
