

By the numbers

Seventeen percent of workers told Gallup this year that they worked 60 hours or more a week, nearly double the 9 percent who said so in 2005.

New York Times, December 27, 2015