

China

A research backwater when its economy took off in the 1980s, China has since spent heavily on r&d to obvious effect.

A study published by Elsevier, a scientific publisher, and Nikkei, a news business, in 2019 found that China published more high-impact research papers than America did in 23 out of 30 “hot” research fields.

The Economist, January 16, 2021