

Cities

Modern “megacities” (defined as places with at least 10 million inhabitants) are the biggest human settlements in history, and growing every day.

The world had ten megacities in 1990, 33 in 2018 and will have 43 by 2030, says the United Nations.

Over a third of their population growth will be in India, China and Nigeria.

Simon Kuper,
Financial Times, June 2, 2022