

Class

Policy-makers from blue-collar backgrounds change classes when they enter politics, but they do not appear to change their policy perspectives.

Neither do business owners, technical professionals, or legislators from other lines of work.
The processes that give rise to class-based differences in legislative voting continue to operate long after lawmakers enter public life.

Nicholas Carnes, White-Collar Government