

Communism

... given that acquired characteristics are not heritable, each new generation will bring into the world non-Communist attitudes, among which acquisitiveness is certainly not the least powerful. Communism was ultimately defeated by its inability to refashion human nature.

Richard Pipes, Communism