

Constitutions

There is a reason why, when choosing their own constitutions, no other country has for long survived with a replica of the American model –and why when guiding the design of constitutions for others, as they did in post-war Germany and Japan, Americans have always suggested solutions quite unlike the one under which they live.

Economist, July 12, 2018