

Dead-in-the-heads say

Judge Roy Moore graduated from West Point and then went into the service, served in Vietnam and then came back and was in law school.

All of the ladies, or many of the ladies he possibly could have married were already married, maybe, somewhere.

So he looked in a different direction and always with the [permission of the] parents of the young ladies. ... He did that because there is something about a purity of a young woman, there is something that is good, that's true, that's straight, and he looked for that.

Flip Benham,
renowned Alabama religious right activist, defending Moore's pursuit of underage girls