

Death

A recent survey carried out on behalf of the Department of Health found that 74 per cent of 49,000 people surveyed believed that the right place for a person to die was a hospital. Yet only 3 percent of these respondents stated that the dying person him- or herself would want to die in such a setting.

Bluntly stated: hospital and hospice deaths are considerably more convenient for the family than they are for the person.
