

Demagogues

The peculiar office of a demagogue is to advance his own interests, by affecting deep devotion to the interests of the people.

James Fenimore Cooper,
The American Democrat