

Democracy

Democracy is not only a form of state, it is not just something embodied in a constitution; democracy is a view of life, it requires a belief in human beings, in humanity. ... I have already said that democracy is a discussion. But the real discussion is possible only if people trust each other and if they try fairly to find the truth.

Tomáš Garrigue Masaryk