

Entrepreneurs

While

second-chance stories are comforting, my research shows that entrepreneurs don't learn from their mistakes.

In fact, it's the opposite: Fail once and you're most likely to fail again.

Believing in the myth only sets entrepreneurs up for more failure—and leads to disappointment and frustration.

Francis Greene,
Wall Street Journal, December 1, 2019