

Evolution

One of the problems of human evolution, as opposed to, say, rocket science, is that everybody feels that their opinion has value irrespective of their prior knowledge.

Henry Gee, The Accidental Species