

Global warming

Justice demands that, with what little carbon we can still safely burn, developing countries are allowed to grow.

The lifestyles of a few must not crowd out opportunities for the many still on the first steps of the development ladder.

Narendra Modi,
prime minister of India