

Globalization

The public perception is that the companies reaping the rewards of globalisation are beyond reach of the rules that apply to everyone else. All the insecurities of globalisation fall on ordinary citizens.

Philip Stephens,
Financial Times, September 16, 2016