

Good news

We will follow five principles: we will develop ideas that help improve the world, not just critique it;
we will collaborate with readers,
and others, to have greater impact;
we will diversify, to have richer reporting
from a representative newsroom;
we will be meaningful in all of our work;
and, underpinning it all, we will report fairly on people as well as power and find things out.

Katherine Viner,
editor-in-chief of The Guardian,
defining the principles guiding its reporting