

Hatred

The South has not forgotten the abuses of Sherman's March to the Sea.
Nor have they forgiven the Northern authorities for the humiliation of subjugation.

The occupied Americans hated
the occupying Americans.
That hatred endures.

Stephen Marche, The Next Civil War