

Healthcare

Then the agreement collapsed. Mark Meadows, Mr. Trump's chief of staff, insisted the drugmakers pay for $100 cash cards that would be mailed to seniors before November – “Trump Cards,” some in the industry called them.

Some of the drugmakers bridled at being party to what they feared would be seen as an 11th-hour political boost for Mr. Trump, the people familiar with the matter said.

New York Times, September 18, 2020, on why attempts to make a deal with pharmaceutical companies to lower drug prices failed