

Higher education

[W]hile higher education has become more diverse by culture and ethnicity, the income gap has grown to be twice as large as the race gap. ... racial preferences have not changed economic power structures in the US. Indeed, they've arguably hardened them by creating what might be called a rainbow aristocracy.

...

The system
is rigged against the less affluent.

Rana Foroohar,
Financial Times, July 17, 2023