

Housing

In this booming housing market, many homeowners earned more last year from home appreciation than from their jobs.

Zillow Group Inc.'s home value index, which estimates the value of the typical U.S. home, rose 19.6% in 2021 to $321,634, an increase of $52,667 from 2020. That figure was slightly higher than what the median U.S. full-time worker earned, which was about $50,000 last year before taxes, according to Census Bureau data cited by Zillow.
