

Immigration

... though the United States accepts more immigrants each year than any other country, the percentage of its population that is foreign-born is lower than in countries like Norway, Gabon, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Arab Emirates — none of which considers itself “a nation of immigrants.”

Caitlin Dickerson,
The Atlantic, May 2021