

Iraq Packers

I found it peculiar that those who wanted to take military action could – with 100 per cent certainty – know that the weapons existed and turn out to have zero knowledge of where they were.

Hans Blix,
on American and British warhawks who justified invading Iraq by insisting it had weapons of mass destruction (WMDs)