

Judges

Trump has already appointed more than one out of every five appellate court judges in the country, and many of their opinions share a cramped view of people's rights and a willingness to distort or overturn precedent.

Elliot Mincberg,
The Washington Spectator, May 3, 2019