

Left-wing populists say

Populism is about valuing the greater good more than the ability of the individual to do and have whatever he wants while never being asked to give up anything.

My political philosophy at its core is that everybody's better off ...
when everybody's better off.

John Fetterman,
Democracy, No. 44, Spring 2017