

The military

Trump and his allies understand that by leaving the military outside their political control the last time around, they also left intact a crucial bulwark against their plans.

They will not make the same mistake twice.

Tom Nichols,
The Atlantic, January/February 2024