

Partisanship

In 1992,
38 percent of Americans lived in
"landslide counties," which went for a presidential candidate by a margin of 20 percentage points or more,
the Times has reported;
in 2016,
the number reached 60 percent.

Sasha Issenberg, "Divided We Stand,"
New York magazine, November 12-25, 2018