

Partisanship

[T]he two parties are now divided over race and religion—two deeply polarizing issues that tend to generate greater intolerance and hostility than traditional policy issues such as taxes and government spending.

Steven Levitsky and Daniel Ziblatt,
*How Democracies Die