

Peckerheads say

It's known for its extremely strong and sharp talons with which it grasps its prey, but it grasps them with its talons and then uses its razor-sharp beak to rip its victims to shreds and to basically tear it apart limb by limb, and I guess the shame about making this a state bird is it would serve as a much better mascot for Planned Parenthood.

Warren Groen, Tea Party Republican, NH House of Representatives and anti-abortion crusader, opposing a bill proposed by 4th graders as part of a civics lesson in law-making to make the red-tailed hawk NH's state raptor and who watched from the gallery, confused, aghast and dumbstruck
