

Politics

If “the personal is political”
was the slogan of the 1960s, docudramas seem to assume that the political is unfailingly personal.

Eric Foner,
“The Televised Past”