

Poverty

One must always have in mind one simple fact – there is no literate population in the world that is poor, and there is no illiterate population that is anything but poor.

John Kenneth Galbraith