

Power

[T]he making of governmental decisions is not a majestic march of great majorities united upon certain matters of basic policy. It is the steady appeasement of relatively small groups.

Robert A. Dahl,
*A Preface to Democratic Theory