

Presidency

Presidents are not just dependent variables; they are significant independent variables as well.

This is consistent with a growing literature on the importance of individual leaders. A president's psychological makeup matters more than ever.

Daniel W. Drezner, The Toddler in Chief