

Punt returners say

If the US president will only talk about things he has thoughts on, we will be hearing much less from him.

Henry Mance

responding to Donald Trump's statement about the Tory election campaign while in London for the 2019 NATO meeting:

"It's going to be a very important election for this great country, but I have no thoughts on it."