

Reparations

In 1833, following slavery's abolition, the British government took out a loan of £20m to compensate slave owners. Its final payment was made in 2015.

Zeinab Badawi,
Financial Times, July 28, 2021