

Retailing

Retail used to be a career.
You actually sat with your store manager and told them,
"This is where I see myself in five years time."

No one thinks like that anymore.
It's just a warm body who can pick up the clothes that were thrown on the floor.

A 37-year-old store manager looking to change careers after having worked in retailing since he got a summer job as a 16-year-old high schooler

Quoted in The Guardian, August 16, 2017