

Retirement

The point of an institution is that it can function without any particular individuals. The end is harshest for people who draw their identity from their job.

Simon Kuper,
Financial Times, April 18, 2024