

Russia

Half the bricks would get stolen.

Russian writer Vladimir Sorokin, responding to a question about what would happen if Russia were to build a wall to seal itself off from the west, as he imagined in his novel, Oprichnik