

Same-sex marriage

They can go right down the street and buy a cake, but no, let's bring a suit against this person because I want them to make my cake even though they don't believe in it. Which is really not all that smart because they might put poison in that cake.

Ben Carson, suggesting anti-gay-rights bakers may poison wedding cakes made for gays