

Science

Science begins with a vision.
Scientific thought is fed by the capacity to “see” things differently than they have previously been seen.

Carlo Rovelli,
Seven Brief Lessons on Physics