

Selfie

I have a long history of recognizing, I'm not the smartest person in the room, that in order to make great decisions about complex problems, I have to recruit and attract more experienced, more skilled, and we've got to create an understanding that we need a creative debate in the room to make these kinds of decisions.

Howard Schultz