

Snapshot

In a letter to The New York Times in 2005, Donald Trump wrote that “some people cast shadows, and other people choose to live in those shadows.”

Mike Pence went a little further and chose to be Trump’s shadow.

He has ended up as a gray man of no substance, who has to insist ever more emphatically on his own godliness because he has no soul left to sell.

Mike Pence
portrayed by Fintan O'Toole